

NextBIG brings together outstanding early-career minds from STEM and medicine to shape the next generation of eHealth innovators through collaboration and access to leading expertise.

What to Expect:

- A competitive, fully-funded networking and education series for highly motivated students, researchers, and young professionals with a passion for eHealth innovation
- Hands-on workshops, international keynote speakers, one-on-one career coaching: 4 in-person events in Berlin, Dresden and Essen; 3 online, 2-hour webinars
- Networking with top researchers and innovators from Germany, the EU, and the U.S.
- Hosted by leading institutions in digital medicine: Charité Berlin, TU Dresden, and the University Hospital Essen
- Certificate of attendance
- No course fee, travel and accommodation costs covered for all selected participants

Application deadline: June 30, 2025

With funding from the

Federal Ministry of Research, Technology and Space

Who Can Apply?

- Master's students, PhD candidates, Postdocs (< 3 years of postgraduate experience), and early-career professionals
- Background in Medicine, Data Science, Informatics, Epidemiology, Public Health, or related fields
- Strong motivation to innovate in eHealth
- Women, first-generation academics, and individuals from diverse backgrounds are especially encouraged to apply!

Conditions

- Participation in all core events is mandatory
- Events are held in English

Apply here!

Visit our website for more information

